

Robbed again!

SVFCH HAS ANOTHER BREAK-IN.

A lot of time and effort went in to repairing the back door to the office at the ReUse Store after someone smashed the door in. With reinforced bolts, we now hope it will be smash proof.

The thief opened many file drawers; including forcing the same drawer that held money the first time we were robbed. (Makes you think?) Law enforcement officials are investigating the incident.

Fortunately, the thief left with only the quarters in the till.

And we know that all things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are the called according to His purpose.

Greater Blessings Construction at the Souza Site

Kerry Sawyer installs one of the storm windows that Shoshone Glass donated toward this project. The new storm windows will help Shannan with her home insurance. Thank you, Kerry & Lori!

John Delaney stands on the ladder while Verne works below to scrape the paint off Shannan Souza's home. The lead paint must be carefully removed and collected on tarps before storing in plastic bags for hazardous removal.

Rick Gilbert brings tools and expertise to the site. Here he is explaining about working with the existing nails in the siding. He also warned Shannon to remove anything hanging on the interior walls that might fall.

Elliott Stairs Quandary

Nancy Elliot's stairs obviously need replacing. So we asked Rick Gilbert to draft plans to do so.

Shoshone County Building Inspector, Mark Magnus, reviewed Rick's plans noting the need to make them comply with Idaho Building Codes.

At Wallace City Hall, Joanne McCoy issued a building permit with the caveat that it would need to comply with the rules for retaining Wallace's status on the National Historic Register. After reviewing the Building Code changes that Mark requires including different step heights and an additional landing, Verne has decided to approach the Wallace Historical Society for a variance. They will not meet until June.

Bornitz Greater Blessings Project

At the Kootenai County Courthouse in Coeur d'Alene, first, Verne talked to Bob Ankersmit, Deputy Building Official for Kootenai County, about replacing the porch that is pulling away from Debra Bornitz's home on Bentley Creek in the Cataldo area.

Then he approached Mike Ulrich, Kootenai County Planner, to ensure Debra's home was above the flood level.

If her porch can be designed to fit under the roof of her home without touching the house, then the plans for the new porch can be drawn by our draftsman, Bob Larson. The porch can be made leak proof using flashing and caulk. Otherwise, an engineer needs to draw the plans.

Once the overall plans are drafted and building permit obtained, then Clint Kunze is looking forward to assigning one of his many youth crews to re-roof her home.
